INSTRUCTIONS

TO THE PROPERTY OWNER: In cases where the contractor performs work which results in an exempt capital improvement to your house or land (real property), he may NOT charge you any sales tax if you issue to him a fully completed Certificate of Exempt Capital Improvement (Form ST-8).

It is important to distinguish between an exempt capital improvement and a taxable capital improvement, repair or installation. If the fulfillment of a contract only maintains the existing value of the property, it is a repair and not a capital improvement. Where an improvement results in an increase in the capital value of the real property, it is generally considered that a capital improvement has been performed. (But see below list of taxable capital improvements.)

As an aid to determine whether a contract is for a repair to real property or a capital improvement to real property, the treatment of such transaction for income tax purposes under the Federal Internal Revenue Code may be used as a guide. If you have any doubt whether the work to be performed constitutes a repair or an exempt capital improvement, you should communicate with the Division of Taxation and describe in detail such work.

The following are examples of exempt capital improvements:

New construction (other than taxable capital improvements listed below)	Porch enclosure, construction of	Paneling, installation of
In-ground swim pool, installation of	New roof, installation of	New heating system installation
New central air conditioner installation	Tiled bath, installation of	Rewiring
Painting a newly constructed house	New bath fixtures, installation of	New electrical outlets installed
New hot water heater installation	New kitchen cabinets, installation of	New siding, installation of
Patio, construction of	New kitchen fixtures, installation of	Garage, construction of
	Paving of driveway	Storm doors and windows, original or initial installation of

The following are examples of taxable capital improvements. This form cannot be issued for these services, which are subject to sales tax on and after October 1, 2006:

- Seeding, sodding, grass plugging of new lawns, planting trees, shrubs, hedges, plants, etc.
- Clearing and filling land associated with seeding, sodding, grass plugging of new lawns, or planting trees, shrubs, hedges, plants, etc., including tree/stump removal
- Installing carpeting and other flooring
- Installing a hard-wired security, burglar or fire alarm system

TO THE CONTRACTOR: If you enter into a contract to add to or improve real property by an exempt capital improvement (see examples above) and the property owner issues to you a properly completed Certificate of Exempt Capital Improvement, which you must retain, you should not collect sales tax from the property owner. (You are required to pay sales tax to your supplier on the purchase of the tangible personal property you purchase for use in performing the contract irrespective of whether the work constitutes a repair or a capital improvement.)

However, if you enter into a contract to repair, maintain, or service real or tangible personal property, or to install a taxable capital improvement, you must collect tax on the charge for labor or services performed in accordance with the contract.

1. Registered sellers who accept fully completed exemption certificates within 90 days subsequent to the date of sale are relieved of liability for the collection and payment of sales tax on the transactions covered by the exemption certificate. The following information must be obtained from a purchaser in order for the exemption certificate to be fully completed:

- Purchaser's name and address;
- Type of business;
- Reasons(s) for exemption;
- Purchaser's New Jersey tax identification number or, for a purchaser that is not registered in New Jersey, the Federal employer identification number or out-of-State registration number. Individual purchasers must include their driver's license number;
- If a paper exemption certificate is used (including fax), the signature of the purchaser.

The seller's name and address are not required and are not considered when determining if an exemption certificate is fully completed. A seller that enters data elements from paper into an electronic format is not required to retain the paper exemption certificate.

The seller may, therefore, accept this certificate as a basis for exempting sales to the signatory purchaser and is relieved of liability even if it is determined that the purchaser improperly claimed the exemption. If it is determined that the purchaser improperly claimed an exemption, the purchaser will be held liable for the nonpayment of the tax.

2. Retention of Certificates - Certificates must be retained by the seller for a period of not less than four years from the date of the last sale covered by the certificate. Certificates must be in the physical possession of the seller and available for inspection.

3. Acceptance of an exemption certificate in an audit situation – On and after October 1, 2011, if the seller either has not obtained an exemption certificate or the seller has obtained an incomplete exemption certificate, the seller has at least 120 days after the Division's request for substantiation of the claimed exemption to either:

1. Obtain a fully completed exemption certificate from the purchaser, taken in good faith, which, in an audit situation, means that the seller obtain a certificate claiming an exemption that:
 - (a) was statutorily available on the date of the transaction, and
 - (b) could be applicable to the item being purchased, and
 - (c) is reasonable for the purchaser's type of business; OR
2. Obtain other information establishing that the transaction was not subject to the tax.

If the seller obtains this information, the seller is relieved of any liability for the tax on the transaction unless it is discovered through the audit process that the seller had knowledge or had reason to know at the time such information was provided that the information relating to the exemption claimed was materially false or the seller otherwise knowingly participated in activity intended to purposefully evade the tax that is properly due on the transaction. The burden is on the Division to establish that the seller had knowledge or had reason to know at the time the information was provided that the information was materially false.
